BOB WOOD REPORTS:

By BOB WOOD
Monterey County Assemblyman

Our office, from time to time, receives a letter from some unfortunate soul whose car has been hit by another driver who has no insurance and usually has no assets to cover the loss of the innocent victim.

The Department of Motor Vehicles tells us that the number of insured California drivers is decreasing. This worries me, and it is probably one of the principal reasons I supported no-fault insurance which hopefully would at least make sure the responisble driver would be insured regardless of the circumstances.

In 1968, 92per cent of the drivers reporting accidents to the Department of Motor Vehicles had liability insurance. Today this figure has fallen to 92 per cent. I thought you might be interested in knowing what you can do if you are involved in an accident with a motorist who is not insured.

First, begin by filing what is called an S.R.-1 report with the DMV. The state law requires you to file this report within 15 days of an accident if an injury has occurred or if the damages are $200 or more.

If this report indicates the uninsured driver is at fault, DMV will have him deposit a sum with their department estimated to cover the cost of the damages.

This deposit will be held by DMV for up to one year pending either the outcome of the court case which you initiate or until an out-of-court settlement has been reached.

If the judge finds the uninsured motorist guilty, and if he refuses to pay, notify DMV. They will suspend his license until your claim has been satisfied. He must also show proof he has filed for liability insurance before DMV returns his license.

You can purchase "uninsured motorist" insurance designed to protect you from these uninsured drivers. This extra insurance option, however, pays you only if you are injured.Enuf for now.....Bob Wood

P. S. I can't help but feel that all of us who consider our dog as part of the family couldn't help but learn a lesson in public relations from our canine friends. My wife and I are gone all week in Sacremento and usually return home each Friday night. Our little old dog (Kate) is almost 13 years old and no particular breed, just dog. Although Kate has the back yard to run in she doesn't see anyone during that 5 day interim except a nice man down the street that comes each evening to feed her and make sure she is OK. When we arrive home we let her in the back door and she races from one end of the kitchen, through the dining room and around the dining room table two or three times to let us know she is glad we are home. A few weeks ago, we had to stay in Sacramento over the weekend, so we didn't get home for two weeks. When we did get back home again, Kate tore up the house with a special display of enthusiasm racing trom room to room to let us know we had been gone too long and she was extra glad to have us home again. We felt truly wanted. Don't you think it would be a better world if we, so-called humans, could show the same expression of appreciation to our fellow man as our canine friends have shown to us?

Education -- 'everyone's concern'

With the theme, "Education is Everyone's Concern," Monterey County Office of Education invites everyone concerned with education to tour its new 60,000 square foot facility on East Blanco Road, Salinas, on Friday, Feb. 22, between 4 and 8 p.m. The County Board of Education, the County Superintendent of Schools and the entire staff extend a welcome to all to see how the new County Office of Education is staffed and equipped to serve the educational needs of over 65,000 students in the county's 26 school districts.

Ask your Congressman

By BURT L. TALCOTT
12th District Congressman

I recently talked with many fishermen about a conservation problem which confronts them, and an environmental problem each of us should understand more fully. Mankind has the responsibility to preserve the ecosystem which supports life on our planet.

In this country Americans are constantly working to balance economic necessities against their environmental preservation.

Most of this nation's industry is dependent upon the smooth functioning of the "life cycle" which provides their raw materials. If the cycle was slowed, damaged, or altered, the gears of our economic system would grind to a halt. It is not happenstance that some of our most knowledgeable and conscientious conservationists are found in the business world.

Together with many of the conservation-minded in the fishing industry from my district, I have been working for some time to alert our citizens to events of unconscionable environmental destruction which threaten to destroy one segment of America's economy and its resources. The Pacific Coast is visited regularly by huge fleets of fishing vessels from Japan and Russia. Miles, sometimes ten miles, of nets are lowered from these boats as they travel over our continental shelf. These trap all in their path. The catch includes everything from the smallest, not-yet-mature, fish to fish eggs which cannot escape these very fine mesh nets.

This technique shows absolutely no concern for future needs and threatens to destroy numerous varieties of fish whose eggs are being wantonly harvested. American fishermen, brought up in the common-sense school of conservation, are worried, frustrated, and angry about this irresponsible activity. They recognize prolonged fishing devastation will be disastrous for their industry, for our environment, for our country, and for mankind generally.

I believe that the United States needs full management control over our coastal fishery resources for conservation purposes. Therefore, I am proposing a three-species concept of control:

COASTAL SPECIES

"Coastal nations shall have the ownership of all fish and shellfish resources which live on or above or are dependent upon the continental shelf and slope adjacent to the coastal nation, and the waters above the shelf and slope, for the reproduction and survival during the major part of their lives.

ANADROMOUS SPECIES

"All nations would recognize ownership by the home nation of all stocks of anadromous fish--fish originating in the inland waters of the home nation. No other nation than the home nation could fish for such anadromous fish anywhere in their high seas or inshore habitat unless granted specific permission to do so by agreement with the home nation. Such species would include: all salmon, all trout and char, shad, and sturgeon.

PELAGIC SPECIES

"Pelagic species such as the tunas, sauries and so forth, not dependent on the waters above the continental shelf of a particular nation for survival during the majority of their life could be fished by all nations without the restriction of coastal national boundaries or territorial seas extending beyond twelve miles except as agreed upon by treaty by all nations concerned in the location, harvest, and conservation of such stocks."

The Federal Government has a responsibility to protect the interests of American fishermen whose resources are being exploited by marauding nations. These resources are no less valuable, nor is their environmental balance any less delicate and worthy of protection, than America's timberlands, mountains, and prairies. Our perspective has to be trained to recognize that the invisible ecosystem under the oceans is as vulnerable to irresponsible human manipulation as the visible ecosystem and just as worthy of protection.

Citizens for Waldie host benefit at MPC

The movie "I. F. Stone's Weekly" was shown last weekend at Monterey Peninsula College to benefit the gubernatorial candidacy of Democrat Jerome Waldie.

Sponsored by Citizens for Waldie, the evening was also a celebration of Waldie's 49th birthday. Mrs. Curtis Hardy, the candidate's mother-in-law, was on hand to help cut the cake.

Jerome Waldie, D-Antioch, is seeking the Democratic nomination for governor of California. He was elected to the U.S. Congress in 1966 after having served eight years asState Assemblyman. He has been a critic of the Johnson and Nixon administrations, and has recently called for the impeachment of the President.

That a film about iconoclastic I.F. Stone should be shown in connection with the Waldie campaign seems fitting. Waldie's statement "there is never a time that is improper to confront an injustice" could easily have been said by Stone.

The film shown twice on Sunday evening, was an excellent documentary about the well-known Washington journalist, I.F. Stone, who refused to cater to any one interest. Unwilling to conform to the political limitations of the media, he founded his own newspaper, "The I.F. Stone Weekly," for almost 20 years gave his readers news they could get nowhere else.

Stone's opening quote set the tone for the film: "Every government is run by liars." He later said that press people should not become too convivial with their sources.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

The Trustees fo the Carmel Unified School District have called a $5,000,000 bond election for March 5 to renovate the current High School for Middle School use ($1.3 million) and to add new structures to the current Middle School for High School use ($3.7 million). The school board is asking the community to come to grips with pressing problems at the Carmel High School in the context of the established long range plans of the district.

For over a year the Carmel School Board has spent many hours at the regular school board meeting and in special study sessions identifying problems and seeking the right solutions to these problems. All of our meetings have been announced in advance, open to the public and covered by the press. All study materials including architectural plans and cost estimates have been received and reviewed at these meetings and are available for inspection at the district's central office. Anyone who has followed the course of our deliberations should certainly realize that the decision to call for the bond election was not easy to reach, but when all the facts were in, the board unanimously agreed that it must offer the best solution to the district which is to switch the High School to the Middle School site now.

In 1960 the voters of the district approved a bond election for the construction of the Middle School as the first increment of a high school on the 40-acre Carmel Valley Road site, with the plan that when conditions warranted, the switch would be made. During the ensuing years other boards have studied and reaffirmend this decision. The present school board has determined that the 33-year old High School requires extensive basic rehabilitation; it lacks essential facilities for an adequate comprehensive high school program; the 20-acre site is too small for the current student body of 1100 (an increase of almost 900 students over 33 years). Considering these problems, the inevitability of the move, the increased costs the longer we delay, the effects of any alternative plans on the total educational program of the district, the board urges the voters to support the election.

In terms of costs to the taxpayer, passage of the bond election will not increase the school tax rate. Under S.B. 90, the school tax decreased 16 cents this year. An anticipated 30 cents reduction next year would be offset by the first year's servicing of the bond. Thereafter, the tax rate will decrease annually, even after combining the S.B. 90 decreases with taxes required for bond interest and redemption.

PAMELA D. SMITH
President, Board of Trustees
Carmel Unified School District

Dear Editor:

On Feb. 8, 1974 I mailed a poem to the Carmel Valley Outlook. As has always been my style when writing a newspaper "Letter to the Editor,"I wrote it in a sarcastic, very hard manner. I've had many telephone calls and notes of appreciation and many people telling me they do like my blunt way of putting my ideas across. Times do change, I guess, but I think when a small town paper changes to such an extent that it won't handle opinionated letters to the editor, well, I don't need it any more.

The young, new editor asks me to go to meeting - to get to know what's going on in the Valley. He says he puts all the CVPOA and Supervisor Branson and state official stuff in there so we'll all know our government better. Ask CVPOA and Mr. Branson adn Burt Talcott who Fran Libby is. I don't need all that brainwashing in the OUTLOOK to keep me informed as to what they want me to know. I, personally miss all those letters from the people of the Valley I used to read about. Sure, I now know what our elected officals want us to know. I've known that for years. What I want to know from my local paper is--what do my peers think--not the ones in clumps or gaggles--the ones with both feet, standing alone and paying taxes.

FRAN LIBBY & I.B. BRIDGES
Carmel Valley

Edotor's note:

We appreciate you straightforwardness in both your poem, submitted earlier, and your letter, above. It was the weaknesses in grammar and technical construction in the poem, not the sarcasm, which obliged us not to print it. We hope that you recognize our need to maintain some selectivity over what is included in the paper and sincerely encourage you to resubmit the poem after reworking it and to continue to contribute your work to the OUTLOOK.

Roadside refurbished

Barren slopes adjacent to Carmel Valley Road for two miles east of Carmel Rancho boulevard are being seeded with native grasses. Designed to enhance the beauty and control erosion of hillsides recently balded in spots during construction work, the planting is scheduled to continue until Feb. 28. Flagmen will assist in directing traffic until the project is completed.

Country Inn appeal denied

In an appellate hearing in Salinas on Tuesday, Feb. 19, the Board of Supervisors voted to uphold the County Planning Commission's denial for a use permit to the Country Inn in Carmel Valley. The board stated that the use of the inn for live music and entertainment was "inconsistent with the atmosphere" of this area in the Valley.

Frances Frazer, owner of the Inn, had filed the appeal after renewal of the use permit was denied on Jan. 9.

Cranston defends free press

Senator Alan Cranston (D., Calif.) said today he would oppose any move in Congress to enact a law that would compel newspapers to print the replies of political candidates whom they have criticized.

"I oppose government editorship of a free press as strongly as I oppose government censorship," Cranston said in remarks prepared for delivery on the Senate floor. He spoke in response to a suggestion yesterday by Senator John McClellan (D., Ark.) that there is a possible need for a "national right to reply law."

"Once the government is given the power to tell newspapers what they must print in the name of 'fairness'," Cranston said, "it is only a matter of time before the government will be telling newspapers what they must not print--also in the name of 'fairness'."

He said this "dangerous and deplorable" situation already exists in radio and television and pointed to a recent order by the Federal Communications Commission that the National Broadcasting Company has to "balance" with additional programming a recent documentary, "Pensions: The Broken Promise," because in the government's opinion it did not present a fair view of the American pension system.

I believe that the American press by and large is eminently honest, objective and fair," Cranston said. "A newspaper's sense of professionalism and its readers' demands for fair play are far superior safeguards for fairness and freedom than the heavy hands of self-serving government agents."

"To give the government power to correct the alleged faults of a free press would be a remedy far, far worse than the disease itself. Indeed, such a supposed remedy may well be lethal to freedom."

Cranston said radio and television "are already struggling under this heavy hand" through the governemnt's imposition of the so-called "fairness doctrine."

"The fairness doctrine often actually inhibits the broadcasting of controversial programs or opinions because some broadcasters are afraid of 'trouble' with the FCC when it comes time for them to seek a renewal of their licenses," Cranston said.

Cranston said "there is reason to believe more freedom for the broadcaster would actually increase the airing of controversial opinions."

Blood drive begun to relieve shortage

As official Blood Donor Week on the Monterey Peninsula got under way registration and information tables were set up at the Carmel Safeway, Rio Road and Highway 1, Carmel Post Office and Holman's Department Store.

Manned by volunteers from the Red Cross and the Peninsula Jaycettes (wives of Junior Chamber of Commerce members) people were being asked to find out more about the satisfying and rewarding experience of giving blood. Since the Red Cross Community Hospital Blood Program is in such vital need of blood and doners, it was stressed that the nature of blood is such that is must be transfused in its whole state within 21 days after being drawn, and the blood given to a patient must be compatible with his own blood group and type.

The voluntary donor is considered the backbone of blood banking. There is no substitution for blood and the only source is the human body, although there are eight blood types, the rarest is that which is not there when it is most needed. Most banks obtain blood from persons who give voluntarily to replace blood used by a relative or friend, to establish protection against future blood needs for themselves and their families. Through a National Clearinghouse Program of the American Association of Blood Banks and a reciprocal agreement between the American Association of Blood Banks and the American National Red Cross, banks can exchange supplies from one area to another to balance blood surpluses or shortages.

The demand for blood increases, yet it is estimated that the annual blood requirements of the nation are provided by less than 3 per cent of the eligible donor population of the United States. Unless more people become donors, the supply will not keep pace with the growing demand for blood.

Appointments to donate blood may be made by calling the Carmel Chapter Red Cross, 624-6921 or the Community Hospital 624-5311 extension 316. The next Red Cross Blood mobile will be at the Carmel Chapter on March 21.

Bond issue to be debated at Tularcitos

Thursday, Feb. 28 the Tularcitos Parents Club will meet to discuss the bond issue involving Carmel High School and Middle School. Presentations will be made by school board members Fran Gaver and Pam Smith as well as by a representative of the Monterey Peninsula Taxpayers' Association, which is opposing the measure. Fred Keeble, the Carmel architect who has drawn plans for the necessary building changes will be present with his drawings.

This is the only major meeting centering on the bond issue scheduled to take place in the Upper Valley. All interested are invited to attend.

Official defends U.N.

In our quest for a stable world, the "United Nations is a way of looking at world interdependence," Edward M. Korry, new president of the UNA-USA in San Francisco said Saturday. "One country's famine may mean another country's high prices and inflation."

Dr. and Mrs. Howard Clark and Margot Hyatt of Carmel and Helene Boughton of Carmel Valley, Peninsula members of the UNA drove up to hear him.

The U.S. and Russia have finally agreed on maintaining Arab-Israeli peace through the U.N. Security Council, he said. To bring about this agreement on guidelines for maintaining peace, Waldheim turned to the recommendations of the Committee of 33.

The peace force now includes Communists, although China abstained from voting. The only way a peace force can get out of a country is for the Security Council to vote for it after six months, he pointed out.

It is probably a turning point in the history of the U.N. that it has agreed at that level on rule through reason with sensible codes of behavior, he said.

Most wars, however, now are started by small countries to whom we are selling arms, he observed. In our concern for the environment, food and energy, we seem headed toward nationalism.

"It is immoral not to contribute to the World Bank," he declared.

Korry was chosen by President Kennedy to be ambassador to Ethiopia and later to Chile on the basis of his experience as a foreign news correspondent in many countries.

A 16-page UNA monthly newspaper will take the place of Vista magazine which was too expensive to produce.

In closing Korry urged the Senate to repeal the Byrd amendment against boycotting chrome from South Africa which had been agreed upon by the U.N.

All Saints Day School opens

Congressman Burt Talcott, Salinas, brought a flag which has flown over the United States capitol to fly from the flag pole given by Arthur Stewart, Pebble Beach, to the All Saints Episcopal Day School.

Donors Talcott and Stewart took part in a flag-raising ceremony at the Carmel Valley private school, Friday afternoon, Feb. 15.

The thirteen-year old school, which is owned and administered by All Saints Episcopal Church in Carmel, is launching a fund-raising effort to add buildings to the campus and to provide scholarships and endowment funds.

Father Peter Farmer, dean of the kindergarten-through-eighth-grade institution since its founding, reported that the first building, under way for some weeks, is expected to be finished in time for June graduation excercises.

This building, according to Farmer, is a multi-purpose building encompassing a chapel, gymnasium, large meeting room, kitchen, motion picture hall, music and dance facilities and storage space.

United Fund president announces record donations

The Monterey Peninsula United Fund awards dinner held last Tuesday was the occastion for the announcement by UF officials of the total contribution figures for the 1973 campaign, an all-time record high donation of $252,311. This amount exceeds the drive's projected goal of $250,000 and far exceeds last year's total of $232,200.

The dinner was also highlighted by the introduction of the 1974 UF officers by out-going President Roy Lassetter, Jr. His successor is Robert C. Pelz, vice president and manager of the Monterey branch of United California Bank. Pelz headed the campaign committee for the Fund's record-breaking drive in 1972.

Accepting the president's gavel, Pelz praised General Lassetter for his outstanding leadership during the past two years. "The General made my job easier in 1972, and it's going to be a real challenge to follow his accomplishments,"Pelz said. "His excellent organization has greatly helped United Fund to function with tremendous efficiency, and the result is obvious, two years of record contributions." Pelz and Lassetter joined in their congratulations to Arnold Green, the 1973 campaign chairman, for his dedicated work and record achievement. Mrs. Myrtle Youngman of Volunteers in Action was also congratulated for her organization's help in distributing thousands of campaign letters and pledge cards throughout the Peninsula. Mr. Dace Durby represented Pacific Telephone's Communications Workers of America, who received an award for the largest employee contribution in United Fund's history, totaling some $10,800.

Other officers for 1974 are James Glaser, president of Del Monte Properties' Real Estate Division, who will serve as vice president and campaign chairman for this year's drive and Robert C. Littlefield of Monterey Savings and Loan, who was re-elected Secretary-Treasurer.

Women in politics express their views

By TRISHA GORMAN

A panel and discussion group was held recently on "Women In Politics," sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula chapter of the National Organization for Women (N.O.W.).

The program, organized by Cappi Patterson, consisted of five-woman panel moderated by Regina Robinson, and included Pearl Carey, currently running for Mayor of Seaside; Barbara Hollister, City Councilperson for Pacific Grove; Marjorie Church, wife of Warren Church, a member of the Board of Supervisors and who is presently running for the Board of Equalization; and Terry Camacho, wife of Julian Camacho who is running for Congress.

In introducing the panel, Cappi stressed that all are politically active women, whether representing themselves, or working with their husbands. Cappi said that until women play a more active role in politics, until they are elected and involved in the legislative process, "then we won't get the changes we want."

"Every woman has a position in politics," she added. "Whether she runs a campaign for someone else or is a candidate herself, she should be involved."

Barbara Hollister and Pearl Carey were the two panel members who have run for office themselves. Barbara Hollister, who was a member of the Pacific Grove Planning Commission, and is presently serving on the Council for that city, told the group of her experiences and how she came to be in politics at all.

"It helps a lot if you have others in the community who support you," she said. She said as a woman politician she feels she sometimes has to do more than a good job.

"There are always people waiting for you to get excited in an argument so they can put you in the "emotional woman" slot," she said.

Pearl Carey, running for mayor in Seaside, was the daughter of an Alderman and has been around politics her whole life. "When I was 15 my father told me I would make a good politician and that I could even be President someday. That inspired me and I've been working ever since," she said.

Pearl Carey, who spices her conversation with wit and good humor, describes herself as an "activist" and sees herself as always "stirring things up."

"There's so much work to do. People don't realize how the System works. We have Watergates on the local level--and on the local level is where we can start to clean them up."

Terry Camacho and Marjorie have both had to deal with the particular stereotypes placed on them as "candidates wives."

"Being the wife of a candidate is not my primary role," Terry Camacho said. "No one should be important just because she's married to a candidate."

She said she felt the candidate's wife whould not speak for the candidate himself, as is often the case when the wife is invited to speak at political functions in lieu of her busy husband. "She can speak in support of him, but she should express her own ideas and opinions."

"Every woman who marries a man who happens to seek public office should not be obligated to go into politics necessarily. It's a choice she has to make for herself," she said.

She also said that the candidate's wife is often "used" to get "the women's vote." "This is not the way to go about it," she indicated. "If I want women to vote for my husband, I make sure my husband is well versed on the things important to the women voters. He's going to be the one in the legislature voting on these issues, he should know what they are."

Marjorie Church also indicated that she doesn't see herself as an appendage to her husband's career but as an active part of the political process.

"My function is not only as a wife who is expected to attend receptions and banquets," she said. "At the conventions they always try to send us off to the fashion shows where we are supposed to engage in small talk."

She said she plays a most active role in campaigning for her husband. "We are a family committed to politics," she said.

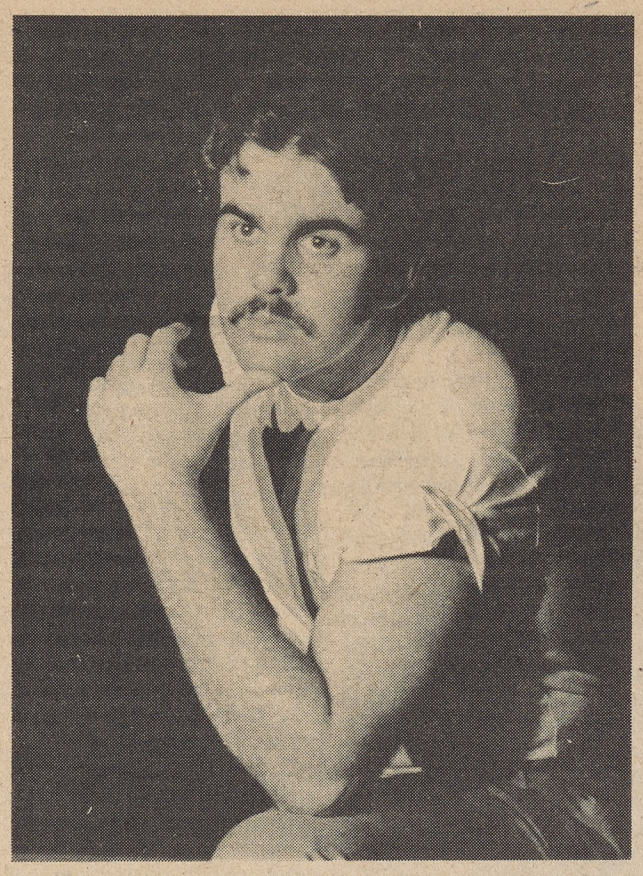
That the Feminist Movement still needs to focus its attention on the political arena was demonstrated by the comments of a woman who said she has been walking in Seaside for Pearl Carey.

"One man said without hesitation that he wouldn't vote for a woman to any position of authority," she said. "Another man told me not to bother speaking to his wife because she just votes the same way he does."

"There are many different attitudes, of course. There are those in Seaside and elsewhere who don't feel as these people do, but still, there is much work to be done."

Federal funds awarded to local school district

Congressman Burt Talcott, Salinas, reported today that he has been informed by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) that Carmel Unified School District will receive $53,469 in Federal Assistance Funds for expenditures which were submitted by school districts pursuant to Title 1 of Public Law No. 374.



MARK TANOUS, '73 graduate of C.H.S. returns as guest performer in the role of Stanley in the high school's production of 'Streetcar Named Desire.' The curtain will rise on March l, 2, 7, 8 and 9 in the Pawnshop Theatre, room 2. Reservations can be made by calling 624-1821.

Carmel High to present 'Streetcar Named Desire'

The Carmel High School drama department is staging Tennessee Williams' play "A Streetcar Named Desire," on March 1,2,7,8, and 9, in the Pawnshop Theatre, Room 2.

This play has won worldwide acclaim and has been awarded the Pulitzer Prize, the Donaldson Award, and the New York Drama Critics' Award. It is an extremely demanding play for the actors, and high schools rarely attempt to produce it.

The tragic Blanch DuBois is played by Ellen Sherman, who was previously seen in The Studio Theatre's production of "How the Other Half Loves," and in Carmel High's production of "Pygmalion," she portrayed Mrs. Higgins. Stanley Kowalski is characterized by Mark Tanous, whose credits include parts in Carmel High's productions of "Carousel," "Harvey," "Love From A Stranger," "Alice in Wonderland," and "How the Other Half Loves."

Cynthia Goble, who portrays Blanche's younger sister, Stella Kowalski, has previously appeared as Eliza in the Carmel High School production of "Pygmalion." The character of Mitch, Stanley's friend, is played by Topper Pendlay. Topper has appeared in "Dark of the Moon" and "The Lion, The Witch and The Wardrobe," both Carmel High School productions. The Kowalskis' landlady, Eunice, is played by Sue Anderson, whose credits include "The Wizard of Oz" and "Guys and Dolls, both of which were produced in Los Angeles.

"A Streetcar Named Desire" is the haunting story of the collision between a sensitive, romantic Southern belle and a coldly domineering realist. Fleeing from her squalid past, Blanche DuBois attempts to find a new life with her sister. Her sister's husband resents her presence, however, and in a violent rage he exposes her past, cutting off her last chance to escape from her reputation. Reservation may may be made by calling 624-1821, weekdays before 4 p.m. Curtain is at 8 p.m. and tickets are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students. It is recommended that children not attend the performances.

It is suggested that tickets be purchased early.

MPC to offer course on native wildflowers

A special spring course studying California's wildflowers will be offered at Monterey Peninsula College beginning Friday, March 8.

The course, Biology 195: "California's Spring Wildflowers," consists primarily of field trips with eight hours of lecture. There are no prerequisites and the course carries one unit of transferable credit.

Dr. Richard Robinson, course instructor, said field trips will be made to sand dunes, seaside slopes, pine forests, valley grasslands, oak-studded hills, redwood forests, foothills and mountains.

Lecture topics will include floral structure and field identification, coastal wild flowers, families of flowering plants, flowers of the valleys and rolling hills, the California floral province, flowers of the foothills and mountains, techniques of preservation and practical examination.

There is no fee to students presently enrolled at MPC, but for new students, there is a $13 registration fee.

For registration or further information, contact Dr. Robinson at 375-9821, ext. 295.

Television classes are planned

"College by Television," Monterey Peninsula College's first series of classes to be offered on the Peninsula via TV cable will go on the air next week. The registration deadline is March 1.

"Law for the 70's," an introductory course explaining the many aspects of law which citizens encounter today, will start on Monday, Feb. 18. The second course, "Family Risk Insurance Management," a consumer oriented course which seeks to help viewers understand how careful risk and insurance planning can protect them from economic loss, will begin on Tuesday, Feb. 19.

The courses will be aired through local television cables on alternate days with KGO-TV broadcasting from 6:30 to 7 a.m. and KQED-TV from 3 to 3:30 p.m. daily. KTEH-TV will rebroadcast the programs a second time from 6:30 to 7 p.m. one week later, beginning Feb. 25 and 26.

Dr. Keith Merrill, dean of the college's evening division, said that more than 100 community residents have enrolled in the courses. The law course carries three semester units of college credit and the insurance management course carries two units of credit.

Dr. Merrill said there are no registration or tuition fees for the programs. The only expense to the student is the course textbook and workbook. For more information, call MPC Community Services at 373-5522.

'Miles Portley' held over

Jim Mairs, director of the MAGIC CARPET, has announced the hold-over of MILES PORTLEY for a fourth and final weekend.

"MILES PORTLEY has had great success with audiences," he says. "We've doubled the length of the show's run, but we've still had to turn some people away. You should definitely call Hidden Valley Theater (659-3115) for reservations. We hold tickets until ten minutes before curtain, then they go on sale at the door."

MILES PORTLEY is a musical adventure-story. It concerns a "not-very-special turtle," a flower named Easy Daisy and their cronies in the Fabulous Forest and the Caverns of Darkness. The story, an original by Jim Mairs, has certain dark and bright parallels to the Orpheus myth. At least half of the MAGIC CARPET'S audiences have been adults, not all of whom, by any means, came with children came with children.

MILES PORTLEY will be seen for the last three times this weekend, Feb. 22, 23, 24 at Hidden Valley Theater on Carmel Valley Road at Ford Road, one-half mile west of the Village. Show-times are, as usual, 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday with a Sunday matinee at 2 p.m. admission is $1 for children, $2 for adults. Tickets should be reserved by calling 659-3115.

DISCOVER THE MONTEREY PENINSULA'S EXCITING WORLD OF DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT

A CONSTANT EVER-CHANGING "FLOOR SHOW"

Jutting low out over the bay and glassed on three sides, the OUTRIGGER provides the excitement of crashing waves and living action on the ocean and bay. Otters ride the surf on their backs, cracking abalone shells, diving and playing. Skin divers explore and train in the cove. Sailboats tack by, and great flocks of gulls accompany the fishing fleet in and out of the bay. Every window frames a "painting," making it difficult to concentrate on the delectable luncheons or dinners. Stormy weather provides spectactular views of the surf. Floodlights at night high-lighting the waves, and the great yellow moon rising over the bay, create a romantic atmosphere ideal for "Moonlight Cocktails!"

Jerry and Sioux continue the entertainment in the evening, Tuesday through Saturday, 9:15 p.m., to 1 a.m. They draw a full house audience night after night with their zany, sparkling fun-show. No two shows are alike. They relate their lines to the evening's particular audience, to everyone's delight.

In the Mark Thomas tradition of hospitality, complimentary wine is offered with a buffet and menu lucheons. The Polynesian and American cuisine provide taste delights unexcelled anywhere ... fresh seafood, great steaks, plus exotic South Seas drinks.

Every Monday night The Outrigger and the Steinbeck Theater combine to give you dining and entertainment ... steak dinner and movie tickets for two for only $12.95!

For a memorable dining adventure and great entertainment, call the Mark Thomas Outrigger, 700 Cannery Row, for reservations. Phone 372-8543.

WHAT?!
... you've never had the Mongolian
FIRE POT?!

Then it's high time you discovered it. This fantastic feast from the days of Genghis Khan is a super-specialty at the Outrigger. Prepared and served right at your table, you get beef, lamb, chicken and shrimp — or abalone, shrimp, sole and squid ... plus imported bean thread, Chinese cabbage, mushrooms, bean curd, bamboo shoots, seven exotic sauces, tea, iced fruit and fortune cookies. It's the greatest eating adventure of ancient Asia ... and the Peninsula! Don't miss it!

All this FOR TWO ... $15

MOVIES IN REVIEW

By GALE QUINSEY

THE EXORCIST

"The Exorcist," the most eagerly awaited, talked about film of the year, has finally arrived here on the Peninsula. Unfortunately, through no real fault of its own, the film has laid a giant deviled egg.

The film itself isn't all that bad. It is, in fact, an interesting, and rather absorbing, fast-paced movie. What is bad, however, are the reactions, or so-called reactions, of film-goers across the nation. Who amongst us hasn't heard the horror stories of people fainting, throwing up in the lobby, or rushing to their friendly neighborhood priests to be exorcised?

After viewing the film, one can only wonder how much of all this hysteria is caused by people who have been truly frightened, and how much by clever Hollywood PR men (i.e. warnings in the lobbies from stern managers: ..."This film is shocking... will not be held responsible... no refunds whatsoever..." etc. etc.

For those of you who have been living in a cave, "The Exorcist" is about an incredibly sweet and innocent little girl who wakes up one morning to find herself possessed by a foul-mouthed, vile smelling devil. Her mother the movie star swears like the devil herself, but is nevertheless shocked to hear such language spewing from her precious child's mouth.

After consulting with various neurosurgeons and psychologists, the mother, in desperation, brings in a priest to chase away The Evil One. What results is admittedly one of the most visually repulsive films ever made, and this, I suspect, is what is upsetting people so much. It's also a little disconcerting to hear an eleven-year-old girl using such incredibly gross language.

But what separates "The Exorcist" from a true horror film such as "Psycho" lies in the realm of believability, and how closely the experience of a film relates to our own lives. "Psycho" frightened people because it was so real; you really could be murdered in the shower by some nut.

"The Exorcist," on the other hand, couldn't be more removed from our common experiences. If people really are fainting and running beserk from the theatres after seeing this movie, it is because they have been programmed to react this way, or are so conditioned to the idea of being frightened that they come to the movie prepared, and expecting, to be shocked silly.

If "The Exorcist" has any real merit, it is in its special effects, which really are very good. And they are nothing more than special effects -- an important thing to keep in mind while watching this film.

"The Exorcist" plays nightly at the Golden Bough Theater Carmel. For more information, phone 624-4044.

Poetry contest planned

Planning for the fifth semi-annual contest of the Poetry Shell, members of the editorial board met recently to discuss plans for the spring edition.

Named as editor for this issue is Jane Ramirez. Other members of the editorial board are Robert Linn, one of the founders of the magazine; Phoebe Hoffman, Vivian Breckenfeld and Helen Parker, all Herald contest poets laureate; Lois Wilson and Marjorie Haller, Toro prize winners, Tom Elston, and Joe Cloonan.

Deadline for submission for this number of the Poetry Shell is April 1. Rules for the contest include prizes in four categories, Adult Serious, Adult Light Verse, Teenage and Juvenile. Details can be obtained by calling Lois Wilson, 372-1863 or Jane Ramirez, 624-7313.

CARMEL VALLEY LITTLE LEAGUE SCHEDULES EVENTS

ONLY A FEW cases reported to date (boys in assorted sizes limbering up pitching and batting arms in Valley fields and back yards) but it is an annual, contagious, spring malady sure to spread to other ball players in the 8-12 age bracket and among enthusiastic adults who annually support the popular recreation program - Little League.

Dates were finalized at the first meeting of the new Carmel Valley Little League Board last Tuesday night. Player-agent, Dan McDonald announced sign-up dates to be Tuesday, March 12 and Thursday, March 14. Locations will be announced at a later date. Tryouts are scheduled for Saturday March 23 and Saturday, March 30 at the Paso Hondo Field. Opening day, with pomp, cermony and the kick-off game of the 1974 season will be Saturday, April 20.

Secretary Kay Appleton will be contacting all past participants in the Billboard program while Treasurer, Leon Panetta will be in touch with the team sponsers. Anyone interested in managing or coaching a minor league team may contact Bill Conlan, Sr. Several coaches and managers are needed.

Work Day at the CVLL ball park was designated as Saturday, March 9. There is cleaning up and repair work to be done, so bring your shovels, rakes, hoes, and a lunch. Come on down and join your friends and neighbors in helping to get the field in shape.

According to League president, Dick Klingensmith, during the during the Work-Day, the board would like to introduce some thoughts on minor league play for the 1974 season. A meeting will be held to discuss these ideas. Your thoughts and help will be appreciated. "Let's start the season out with a big crew at the ball park on March 9th," says, President Dick, "See you there!"

PLANS FOR 1974 CANCER FUNDS UNDER WAY

A LIVE Oak Lane resident, Mrs. Norman Bundgard has been named Upper Valley residential chairman of the 1974 fund drive to benefit the American Cancer Society. Mrs. Bundgard is also a member of the board of directors of the Monterey-San Benito County unit of the Society. Neighborhood captains have accepted appointments and will be organizing volunteers to contact each resident in their area during the crusade which runs March 30 through April 7 in the Upper Valley.

Volunteer help would be welcomed by any of the following captains: Mrs. Clifford Bolgard, La Rancheria and Los Ranchitos; Mrs. John Conklin, Boronda and Garzas; Mrs. George Brehmer, Rancho Road; Mrs. Arthur Bennett, Country Club, Laurel and Panetta; Mrs. James Cecka, Village North (Ford Road through Los Tulares); Mrs. Larry Cisneros, Village South (Village Drive - Paso Hondo); Mrs. John Woods, Lower Robles Del Rio; Mrs. Thomas McKiernon, Upper Robles Del Rio.

If you are unable to assist in the door-to-door fund drive there are numerous other jobs to be filled in the continuing battle against cancer. Drivers are needed to take patients to treatment centers (2,000 trips were made to the Community Hospital in 1973 for treatments either by volunteer chauffer or taxi). Also needed are projectionists to show educational movies to local groups, people to telephone or hand address from their own homes and assistants for special events. If you can assist in any of these projects, please phone the Monterey office at 375-6547.

The Monterey Peninsula Crusade chairman this year is also a Valleyite, John A. Crivello of Berwick Drive. The Upper Valley Business chairman is Frank Catalono and Mid-Valley Business chairman is William Ehrle.

CV LIONS TO HOST STUDENT SPEAKERS

"ECOLOGY - Its Price," is the featured subject for the annual Student Speakers contest sponsored locally by the Carmel Valley Lions Club. Four contestants represententing the Robert Louis Stevenson School will appear at the Carmel Valley Community Center on Wednesday evening, March 6th following a potluck dinner to be served at 7 p.m.

Mrs. Ellen Kester, the speech faculty member at Robert Louis Stevenson, is cooperating with the Carmel Valley Lions in sponsoring a contest at the school with the finalists appearing for the local Lions Club. The winner will later represent the Valley in Peninsula competition.

Clifford Bolgard is chairman of the Speakers Contest with Richard C. McKenzie, governor of district 4-06 slated to present the awards. The public is invited to hear these young men speaking on a very timely subject.

COMING: "PLANT EXHANGE DAY"

A PLANT Exchange Day will be co-sponsored by the Carmel Valley Garden Association and the Carmel Valley Community Center Board members at the Center on Saturday, March 23.

While preparing their gardens for the spring and summer, residents are requested to set aside any surplus slips, starts, bulbs, seedlings, etc. to bring to the Center on that date to add to the exchange tables. Remember that any plant growing in wild profusion in your yard may be just the one that a neighbor may have difficulty establishing and would appreciate finding on the tables to be exchanged for free.

Garden Club members are also planning a sale booth with established flowers, shrubs and trees. A snack booth will be open and everyone is invited to meet at the Center for a "garden swap."

CARMELO SCHEDULES MEETINGS

PARENTS WHO expressed interest last fall in class presentations are asked to mark their calendars for meetings scheduled for the spring semester. According to Principal Philip K. Smith, the meetings will begin March 7th for Alpha group; Beta follows on March 14th; kindergarten parents are invited to the April 4th session; and Gamma will meet on May 9th.

YOUTH SCIENCE CENTER CHANGES HOURS

THE YOUTH SCIENCE Center sends word from over the hill that the public is now invited to view the live animal exhibits Tuesdays through Fridays from 1-5 p.m., and on Saturday from 11 a.m. until 4 p.m.

The time change was made as the Center's contribution toward relieving the energy crisis. The new times will not affect current programs and the Center will be open mornings for school classes by appointment only.

CUB SCOUTS of Pack 127 celebrated the 64th anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America with their traditional Blue and Gold Banquet held last week in the Tularcitos multipurpose room. Parents, families, and friends of the two Valley Cub Scout Dens attended the Potluck dinner, where the new Valley Cubmaster, Terry Stratton; den mothers Mrs. Stratton and Mrs. Kaye Appleton, Webelo leader, Dr. John von Berg; and Pack committee members, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Bishop and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Keator were introduced.

A court of awards was held during the evening with presentations made to: Keith Moore: 1 Year Recruiter award; Greg Bennett: Bobcat; Paul Lord: 1 Year; Lindsay Friday: Bobcat; Troy Shephard: 1 Year; Doug Pylate: 1 Year; Matthew Keator: Bobcat; Dan Weise: Bobcat; Steve Skerce: 1 Year.

Webelo awards were presented to John F. Blatnik: Bear, 2 Year, Aquanaut, Ecology; Randy Paik: Geology, Puppetry, Recruiter, Aquanaut; Brooks Garner: Aquanaut, Ecology, 2 Year; Art Muir: 2 Year; Mike Colvin: Traveler, Geology, Aquanaut, Showman, 2 Year.

All Valley boys in the 8-12 age group are invited to join the future fun activities planned for the Cubs - younger brother of TERRY STRATTON, new cubmaster of Carmel Valley's pack 127.

Boy Scouts. For further information phone Mr. and Mrs. Stratton at 659-4862

Terry Stratton, who was named as Carmel Valley Cubmaster at the Blue and Gold dinner is a resident of Marquard Road and manager of the new Long's Drugstore in Seaside. "An old oak leaf cluster" to the Strattons for volunteering their services (Beth is a Den mother) and salvaging a youth program which would have otherwise folded for lack of adult leadership. The Strattons, incidentally, do not have any of their own children in scouting - their oldest child is four.

Three Valleyites were recently named to the Carmel Board of Realtors for 1974. Nancy Strathmeyer of Berwick Drive has been elected vice president, Jack George of Ranch Road will serve as salesman-director and Michael Marquard of La Rancheria will serve as director.

COMMUNITY CHAPEL GUILD HEARS EVE TARTAR BROWN

EVE TARTAR BROWN spoke to the Carmel Valley Community Chapel Guild on Feb. 13 at the Birthday meeting honoring the birthday of all members. Her talk was on the "Art of Living" in which she illuminated the difference between similarity and sameness, explaining how the routine, everyday scenes and chores, while similiar, are never the same because they are changed by circumstance, season, time of day or even the individual's approach to the task.

Eve Tartar (Mrs. Harper Brown) is a successful and well known painter-sculptor who established her home studio in Carmel Valley about ten years ago. Her work is abstract, symbolic, and architectural, an "outer manifestation of an inner condition." Eve Tartar has had many one-woman shows in all parts of the country, locally at the Gallerie de Tours in both Carmel and San Francisco, the Tantamount Theatre and the Thunderbird in Carmel Valley. She has received many awards in juried shows, and her constructions and exhibited in important private and museum collections. Next month she will have a solo showing at the Carmel Art Association in the Beardsley room.

Mrs. Brown was enthusiastically received by members and guests of the Guild who enjoyed a selection of birthday cakes beautifully arranged on a Valentine table of red hearts and pink camellias. Mrs. Paul Edwards was in charge of the refreshments with the assistance of Mrs. William Meyer and Mrs. S.N. Trevino.

Communication Workshop proves successful at C.V. Middle School

Faculty's responsiveness enhanced

Middle School teachers benefited from three afternoon in-service workshops in communication skills during January and February of the new year.

Following the "minimum day" schedule, students were dismissed at 12:30 p.m., and teachers remained until 5 p.m. to experience new methods of communicating with students.

Under the leadership of Jay Criddle and Dee Dresser, both counselors at the Middle School, the group participated in role-playing activities, discussions, tape recording sessions and several other training devices.

The workshop took place in the relaxed, casual atmosphere of the school's carpeted Resource Center, furnished with couches, pillows, bean bag chairs and much appreciated cookies and coffee.

Both a subjective verbal and an "objective" written evaluation were made, and the results were positive in that the participants indicated that they plan to use the skills they have developed through the program.

Valleyite to serve on NPS Foundation board

The Naval Postgraduate School Foundation, Inc. Board of Directors has announced the election of two new members and the re-election of two others at its annual meeting at the Naval Postgraduate School (NPS).

Newly elected to the board are Mrs. Jean Thomas of Carmel Valley and Captain J.J. Scheela, Supply Corps, NPS Comptroller. Re-elected were Mr. Robert M. Allan, Jr., to the post of President and Rear Admiral Mason Freeman, NPS Superintendent, as senior military member.

Mrs. Thomas is the first woman to be elected a Trustee of the NPS Foundation and brings to the Board an outstanding record of civic achievements in Monterey. She has served as a Trustee of the Monterey Institute for Foreign Study, Trustee of the Monterey Peninsula College, and Trustee of the Monterey Foundation. A graduate of Smith College and the wife of Mark Thomas, she was elected as a 1972-73 "Woman of the Year in Monterey." The Thomases have three daughters and one son.

The Naval Postgraduate School Foundation, Inc., is a non-profit organization which was founded four years ago to hold funds and gifts to the school in trust. The donations are used at the direction of the Board of Directors to suit the needs of the Postgraduate School and the wishes of the donor. The Foundation also acts as an agent between the school and Peninsula communities for the exchange of ideas and information of mutual benefit.

Since its inception, the Foundation has made many notable achievements. It was particularly influential in efforts to have the Navy retain some of its valuable beach and other properties in order to maintain the ecological balance in Monterey County.

Study program abroad

On Feb. 27 at 7 p.m. students interested in registering for a summer program abroad in Comparative Culture will meet in the Carmel High School library. Under the direction of Gail Rossiter, a foreign language teacher at the school, the student group will spend over a month living, studying and exploring among the people of western Europe. Cities to be visited include Nice, Monaco, Genoa, Lucerne, Heidelberg, Frankfurt and London.

"We'll be learning about the countries we'll visit beforehand during evening meetings," explains Ms. Rossiter. Native educators will add to the program by presenting lectures on current events and culture. High school or college credit will be granted for participation in this program prepared by the Foreign Study League.

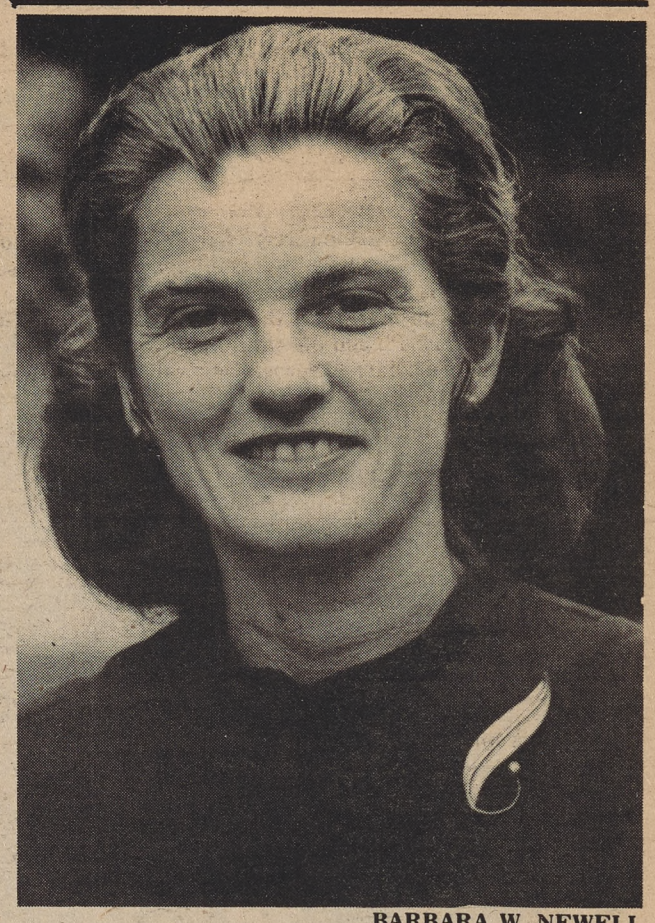
Prior to teaching in Carmel, Ms. Rossiter spent a year touring western Europe on her own, "camping - all year - rain, snow, etc." In addition to her first-hand traveling experience, Ms. Rossiter possesses a counseling credential. She emphasizes that "All meals will be native to the country, prepared by selected native chefs. We are very careful about food and sleep for health reasons. It's an exciting, strenuous tour."

Girl Scout leadership training

The first session of a new Effectiveness Training course entitled "Getting Ready for Tomorrow" was held this week at Monterey Peninsula College. The class, designed for Girl Scout leaders and other adults interested in young people, is structured for a drop in attendance with registration still possible.

The fee is $5, or $3 for registered Girl Scouts. The course meets weekly from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in Music Room 10.

Under the direction of Dennis Johnson, such interests as political processes, parenthood, social pressures, interpersonal relationships, and man's relation to his environment will be discussed by guest speakers.



BARBARA W. NEWELL

Wellesley president to visit Peninsula

Mrs. Barbara W. Newell, recently appointed President of Wellesley College, will be the guest speaker at a tea to be held by the Monterey Bay Wellesley Club on Saturday, Feb. 23 at 2:30 p.m. at the Casa Serrano, 412 Pacific Street in Monterey.

Following her talk, there will be a brief question and answer period after which tea will be served. The meeting will be open to those interested in Wellesley, especially future students and their parents. Anyone wishing to attend, should call Mrs. Dale Carson, 624-8261, on or before Feb. 21.

Mrs. Newell before coming to Wellesley, was Professor of Economics at the University of Pittsburgh and served as Presidential Assistant at the University of Michigan for four years. She holds a BA degree from Vassar and an MS and Ph.D from the University of Wisconsin. She is the author of several books and articles on labor problems in the United States.

Wellesley College, one of the so called "Seven Sisters", on the eastern seaboard, is celebrating its centennial in 1975. It has an enrollment of about 1800 students from the United States and forty foreign countries.

After three years of study by faculty, administration, alumnae and students, Wellesley decided not to become co-educational. However, it does not lack male contacts -- in 1972-1973, 231 Wellesley students were taking courses at nearby M.I.T. and 204 M.I.T. students were taking courses as part of an exchange program which has been in operation for over 5 years. Wellesley also belongs to the Twelve College Exchange Group, students of which may transfer for a semester to any of the member colleges. Through this program roughly 75 men are living and attending classes at Wellesley at any given time.

The Monterey Bay Wellesley Club considers Mrs. Newell's visit an honor, perhaps attributable to the fact that the group of alumae here on the Peninsula, though small, has been very active over the years in raising money for scholarships through their annual Bargains in Books Sale, to be held this year on April 19, and through their sale of Couroc trays, the first trays to be designed for a college group.

Carmel students honored

Three Carmel students are among the young people scheduled to receive citizenship awards from Commodore Sloat Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution on Tuesday, Feb. 19.

The presentation will take place at 3 p.m. at the San Diego Federal Savings and Loan Building in Monterey.

The awards will be presented by Mrs. Frank E. LaCauza of Monterey, State Regent of DAR, to Jim Irwin of Carmel Middle School and Theresa Beardsley of Junipero Serra. Sara Harnish of Carmel High School will receive a Senior Girls Good Citizen Award. Teresa Wright of Seaside High School, Teri Ann Kier of Pacific Grove High School and Carolyn Beach of Monterey High School are the other Monterey Peninsula Senior girls being honored.

Other recipients of citizenship awards are Glen L. Bodke of Robert Louis Stevenson School, Pebble Beach; Sandra Nobusada of Walter Colton Junior High; High; Daniel Lewtscheck of Fremont Junior High; Andrew Oven of San Carlos School; Karl Alamares of Fitch Junior High; Sally O'Neill and Myrian Savage of Santa Catalina, and Marie Velasquez and Wayne Garnett of Martin Luther King Junior High.

Those receiving awards were chosen on the basis of honor, service, leadership and patriotism.

Mrs. Oliver E. Wood of Carmel and Mrs. Howard E. Helliesen of Monterey are chairmen of the Good Citizens and Citizenship Committees, and Mrs. Duncan Murray of Pacific Grove is the Awards Tea Chairman

By LUCY SMITHSON

OUR FAVORITE horse, El Pluggo, is a calm, quiet animal. His amnners are entirely courteous. His intentions are honorable. He is a scholar and gentleman among horses.

His character is flawless except for one imperfection. If any little thing is different from the way it was yesterday and the day before, El Pluggo becomes unplugged.

Last Sunday we splashed across the river to the Trail and Saddle Club. Instead of the open empty spaces we usually see, the parking lot was filled with horse trailers. A schooling show co-sponsored by the Trail and Saddle Club and the Carmel Valley Dressage Society was in progress.

Well! Candidate-for-the-Glue-Factory came completely unglued. Strange horses..."Snort!" Vans and trailers... "Snort!" Fidget, prance, and tip-toe sideways, fast! His hold on reality has a spring-loaded, quick-release panic button.

Poor horsie! What can be the matter with him? Well, besides being overfed and underworked, what ails him?

What's troubling him is his mother and father. Freud preserve us, also his grandmothers and grandfathers and his grandams and grandsires unto the umpteenth generation. Being a Thoroughbred, he was born a "hot blood."

Somewhere in evolution between Eohippus and Equus caballus, two distinct strains of horses evolved. East of Eden was found a horse adapted to warm climates. Built with more sweat glands and long bones, it had more skin surface per pound of horsemeat.

IT TAKES a different kind of rider to ride a hot-blood.

This progenitor of hot-blooded horses also had a higher count of red blood cells than its cold-blooded cousin. It had more nerve endings per square inch of skin.

The cold-blooded horse was adapted to living in a cold climate. It had a longer, more efficient gut and easily grew subcutaneous fat to insulate it against the cold. It had one more vertebra than its hot-blooded relative. It had a thicker, more furry coat and long hair grew on its legs. Its adrenal glands did not pump excess amounts of adrenalin into its bloodstream at the drop of a pin--its energies were conserved for staying warm and for eating.

The desert tribesmen of the Middle East and North Africa took the hot-blooded horse into their hearts, their lifestyles and their tents. For hundreds of generations they selectively bred them for quality, refinement, sensitivity and spirit. Tenting in the desert being what it was, they were also breeding for ability to survive under primitive conditions. The Arabian horse is a pure representative of a hot-blooded horse. The modern Thoroughbred shares much of the same genetic background.

The northern ponies and horses also led a tough life. Humans bred them for selected qualities of moving loads around. Tough pit ponies to pull the ore carts in the mines, great horses to carry knights in armor, coach horses, farm horses, and easy-gaited hobby horses all came in round, compactly built, cold-blooded bodies.

In more modern times, a demand for pleasure horses created a demand for hot-bloods. New breeds were created and old ones altered by crossbreeding cold-blooded horses with North African or Arabian hot-bloods. The Thoroughbred, the Hackney, the Trakehner, and the Andalusian or Lippizaner were all bred for pleasure.

Queen Victoria caused five Arabian stallions to be turned loose in Wales to improve the quality of Welsh ponies.

The trend continues in this country. Quarter Horses used to be chunky, heavy animals; that knew which end of the steer to look in the eyeball. Now they're so closely bred to Thoroughbred you can't tell their colts apart.

The big, jugheaded Tennessee Walkers have vanished, to be replaced by horses which look like "yon Cassius."

Morgan horses used to represent a close approach to the elusive goal of crossbreeders. They had much of the speed and dash of the hot-bloods without their tendency to fly off the handle. They had the round, fat bodies of cold-bloods without their coarseness. Some bloodlines of Morgans have now been bred beyond recognition in imitation of Saddlebreds.

The American Saddlebred is every bit as hot-blooded as the Thoroughbred and Arabian, conformation notwithstanding.

Practically the only pure cold-bloods left are Shetland ponies and Clydesdales. Maybe not even them.

What keeps grade horses bred is the continuing demand for some cold-blood. The Paso Fino and the Appaloosa are two examples in which qualities carried by cold bloodedness still are valued.

You see, it takes a different kind of rider to ride a hot-blood. Few hot-blood riders curl one knee around the saddle horn and use both hands to roll a cigarette. The hotter the horse, the less likely his owner is to leave him standing in the corral for three weeks, then jump on for a friendly bareback ride.

Hot-bloods require more or less constant attention. Their riders have to be more generous.

Hot-bloods are more responsive. "Whoa, horse. I didn't mean to nudge you, and here we are galloping!" Their riders must be more careful not to make mistakes, and more tolerant when their horses make them.

Hot-bloods are more nervous. They think too much. Therefore their riders must possess a certain cunning. Often the rider has to "hold his horse together" or the horse will get carried away with his own fantasies.

Hot-bloods are more fearful. It's those overactive adrenals coupled with overactive imagination. When something spooks a cold-blood, he picks up his ears and feet but soon settles down again. The hot-blood has to be scraped off the sky when he's gone into orbit. Therefore, the rider of a hot-blood had better not be the nervous type and had better have a muscular seat.

All horseback riders should be generous, careful, tolerant, cunning, iron-nerved, and have strong seat muscles. But the hotter your horse is, the more you have to be that way.

It also helps to be courteous, brave, helpful, loyal, reverent and a good scout.

If you lack the above qualities and still insist on falling in love with hot-blooded horses--if you are truly a glutton for punishment--a sense of humor may see you through.

Cypress Swim Club victorious in regional meet

Cypress Swim Club members held their own in the 1974 National AAU Regional XIII Age Group championships last weekend at Golden West College in Huntington Beach despite a strong challenge to the Pacific AAU's historic dominance of competitive synchronized swimming. In the regional championships, which saw Southern Pacific AAU swimmers for the first time displace many of the Pacific AAU medalists in the finals, Cypress swimmers won two first places, one second, and two third places.

Gerri Brandly of Carmel Valley won first place in the figures competition in the 15-17 age group, receiving the highest score of any swimmer in the entire meet, which included over 182 competitors from the western region. Kathryn Blevens, also of Carmel Valley, placed twelfth in this portion of the two-day competition, while Kim Pilkenton of Carmel took 14th, and Liz Wilson, also of Carmel, 39th. Team alternate Leslie Henry, in her first regional championship, took 35th place in the 13-14 age group. All of the Cypress swimmers increased their scores substantially over those attained in the Pacific AAU's qualifying meet two weeks ago, which was also won by Ms. Brandly.

In the duet championships, the Cypress duo of Blevens and Brandly won the gold medals, three points ahead of their nearest rivals from the Tustin Meraquas.

In the team event, the Cypress foursome hung on to third place, which they had also held in the Pacific championships, while Santa Clara, after placing first here, was edged to second by an eight-girl team from Tustin; and the San Francisco Merionettes, who had beaten Cypress in the PAAU, dropped to fifth place, with Glendale in fourth.

Cypress suffered from the SPAAU strength only in the solo event, where its only qualifying soloist, Kathryn Blevens, who had won the 15-17 solo event in the Pacific AAU, headed into the routine competition in fourth place after the preliminary figures competition. In routine competition, however, three of the seven judges placed her first, and the other four placed her second, to give her an overall placing of third, behind two swimmers from the Riverside Aquettes. Meanwhile, Tara Cameron of the San Francisco Merionettes and Mary Maita of the Hayward Flying Fins dropped to fifth and sixth respectively, behind Avilee Bean of the Tustin Meraquas.

The next competitive event for Crypress will be the Pacific AAU Novice Championships in South San Francisco on March 3.

New York Ballet Ensemble to visit Peninsula

Last in the concert series, the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association will present the New York Ballet Ensemble, a company of six dancers, featuring an Homage to Anna Pavlova at the Pacific Grove Junior High School auditorium, Monday evening, March 4, at 8:15 p.m.

The program includes works for which Anna Pavlova was justly famous--The Dying Swan (Fokine), Gavotte Pavlova (Traditional), Chopiniana (Fokine)-- better known in America as Les Sylphides, and the Pas de Six from "Paquita" (Petipa), one of the oldest ballets extant, dating from 1846. Completing the program will be the Czardas from "Coppelia" (Arthur Saint-Leon) and Thomas Andrew's satiric Recherche.

From Puerto Rico, Elisabetta Calero was awarded a grant from the Institute of Culture of that country for a full scholarship at the School of the Harkness Ballet. Her engagements include the Boston Ballet and the Niagara Frontier Ballet. Sandra Balestracci is much sought after by leading choreographers. She continues as prima ballerina with the New York Opera Ballet and the Niagara Frontier Ballet. Sandra Balestracci is much sought after by leading choreographers. She continues as prima ballerina with the New York City Opera Ballet, and has performed as guest artist with many opera companies, including San Francisco. She was guest soloist for twelveengagements at Radio City Music Hall and on numerous TV shows. From the PhiladelphiaCivic Ballet comes Candace Itow.

Also a member of the New York City Opera Ballet, she has been engaged as guest artist with the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre and the Lyric Opera. Beginning studies with his parents, Christopher Corry was assigned lead roles at the age of seventeen in many of the classics, and concertized extensively throughout the United States. John Fogarty performs with the New York City Opera Ballet, and companies of Philadelphia, Miami and the Ballet Concertante of Puerto Rico. Born in Argentina, Mario Ignisci has had leading roles with the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, and as guest star with the St. Louis Civic Opera Ballet and Radio City Music Hall.

Attendance is limited to members of the association, and to members of similar associations on a space available basis. New members will be admitted on presentation of their receipt stub.

Playreaders to feature 'Triolus and Cressida'

Forest Theater Guild playreading group which meets Tuesdays at 8 p.m. will hold its next two meetings in classrooms 1 and 2 at All Saints' Church, Lincoln at 9th in Carmel.

"Troilus and Cressida" will be the next Shakespeare play read aloud with Charles Thomas, director, passing around the parts for all who care to read aloud.

Visitors last week included former Carmelite, Patrika Hall Brown of New York City, Alison Schwyzer of Carmel, and a large group of Santa Catalina students who returned to hear the ending of "Othello."

David Hughes, Robert Bradac, Frances Bakun, Ramon Wilson, William Lewis and John Sullivan who all appeared in past summer productions took part in the reading.

Other regulars include Kenneth Hardy, Shirley Thomas, Peter Magee, Tricia Gorman, Jeff Hudelson, Lisa Hannigan and Nancy Severinghaus, all of Carmel.

Steve Tracy and Shirleen Holt have been coming over from Pacific Grove, and Royston and Mark Brunston from Monterey.

St. Dunstan's Episcopal begins Church Construction

"No church is built without struggle and sacrifice." Rev. James Brock of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church told his congregation at the groundbreaking ceremonies last Sunday on the 3-acre parcel near Farm Center which was purchased by the church in 1956.

Construction of the church began Monday by contractors Daniels and House. Architect Mel Blevens, Valley resident and a member of St. Dunstan's, drew the plans.

Members of St. Dunstan's traveled to the site following their regular 11:00 a.m. services at the Carmel Valley Community Center. Breaking ground with the Rev. Brock were Rudolph Ploense, who was first communicant of St. Dunstan's when it was founded in 1955; Mrs. Ploense and Mrs. Emma Shoemaker, who were among the earliest communicants and Harry Townsend, chairman of the building committee. Also participating were Captain Philip Mothersill, church warden, and Ned Sinclair, church school superintendent.

Saturday movies earn $500 for Pool

Nearly $500 has been contributed to the CV Community Swimming Pool fund from the proceeds of the Saturday afternoon movies presented weekly by the Carmel Valley Student Youth Group. In accepting the donation at a special meeting last week, the board of directors of the Carmel Valley Community Center voted a "special commendation" to Kit Parker, Roger Gardner, and Jan, Jackie and Dwight Jones who have carried the responsibility of the weekly showings.

Saturday movies for Carmel children

Movies for children are being shown every Saturday afternoon at the All Saint's Church in Carmel. Films are carefully selected for presentation. There are many Walt Disney films, documentary films of interest to children, and so forth, in both color and black and white. Typical selections have been "Lassie," "Dumbo," "Story of Seabiscuit," "Alice in Wonderland," and so forth.

From Oaks and Cacti

The ballroom dance class that began under the direction of Stanley Holmes as a benefit fund for the Carmel Valley Swimming pool has become a club that will meet once a month for a social evening of dancing. The first "evening out" for the group was held last Saturday night when they danced at the Naval Post Grad school. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Allaire, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Petkus, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Patton, and Stanley Holmes.

SPCA holds open house at La Vega Verde

A rousing welcome is promised for visitors to the new shelter of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals when they will be open for visitors at La Vega Verde from noon to 6 p.m.

The new location site is on the Monterey-Salinas Highway opposite the Laguna Seca raceway.

The grounds for the building were dedicated in April of last year, and the buildings have since been completed with the transference of the animals made.

Fifth graders to return to Carmel elementary schools

The 149 ten-year-olds at Carmel Middle School will find their place in the history books as the only fifth graders ever to attend that school---at least, within the foreseeable future.

That was the decision meted out by the district's Board of Education last week as they voted in favor of placing the fifth grade back into the elementary schools as of September of this year.

Heavy rains triple record

Almost three more inches of rain were added to weather charts during the past week with a total of 22.21 recorded Tuesday morning at the Carmel Valley Fire Station.

The amount of rainfall more than triples last year's recording of 7.71.

'Yugoslavia' film captures history and culture

The first major new film of Yugoslavia, showing what life is like there in the 1970's, will be screened in 10 Northern California cities as part of the Explorama travel-adventure film series. Thayer Soule will appear in person to narrate his production "Yugoslavia" at all of the showings. The film will be screened in Carmel at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 27, at the Sunset Cultural Center in Carmel.

Soule was production assistant to Burton Holmes, the man who coined the phrase "travelogue" and has been involved in the travel-adventure film field for most of his life. He was recently President of Film Lecturers Association, an organization of professional travel-adventure film producers.

The first part of the film deals with the history of Yugoslavia, including a review of how the area was divided in earlier times between Rome and Constantinople, the Turkish domination which lasted for 500 years, World War I and the creation of the country, the brutal Nazi occupation during World War II and the formation of the modern state. The balance of the film deals with life in the country as it is today.

The film was shot on location in Belgrade, Zagreb, The Iron Gate of the Danuble, Kovacica near the border of Hungary, the Dalmation Coast, Dubrovnick, Stari Bar, Sveti Stefan, Split, Sibenik, Skopje, Sarajevo, Mostar, the Caves of Postojna, Lipica, the original stud farm of the famed Lipizzaner Horses, the ski resort of Zabljak, Lake Bled, and at Plitvice National Park.

Highlights include the story of artist Zuzana Chupulova; shots of rare Byzantine art; a look at the farmland which is today eighty-five per cent in private hands; and an examination of the rapid tourist progress which has made Yugoslavia, a Socialist country, a major Western tourist area.

Reserved seat tickets are available through Abinante Music Store in Monterey and Julia Marlow Box Office at the Sunset Center.

Candidates night next Tuesday

The League of Women Voters of the Monterey Peninsula will sponsor a Candidates' Night for the city of Carmel on Tuesday, Feb. 26, at 8 p.m. in the library of Middle School on Carmel Valley Road. The three candidates, Bernard Anderson (incumbent), Richard Bragg and Michael Brown will participate.

The proposed school bond will also be discussed by spokesmen from both sides of the issue. The audience will be invited to join in a question period. The moderator will be former League president Mrs. Tom (Gerry) Houston.

New higher interest rate on U.S. Savings Bonds.

Now U.S. Savings Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity.

Here's how it works: The higher interest rate applies to all new Bonds purchased since December 1, 1973, raising their rate from 5½% to 6% when held to maturity. And the maturity period on Series E Bonds is shorter, too. Now E Bonds mature in 5 years, with a first-year rate of 4½%.

Series H Bonds, with a 10-year maturity, will earn 5% the first year; 5.8% for the next four years; and 6½% for the last five years. This gives you an average 6% yield over the 10-year period.

It works for Bonds you now hold, too. There's no reason to redeem your older Bonds to buy new ones. Their yield has improved, too.

All outstanding E Bonds will receive a ½% increase in yield for each semiannual interest period beginning on or after December 1, 1973, payable upon redemption. This also applies to any Freedom Shares you may still hold.

All outstanding H Bonds will receive a ½% yield increase for each semiannual interest period beginning on or after December 1, 1973. This is payable in the form of increased semiannual interest payments.

It all works to your advantage. Now, more than ever, it makes sense to buy higher-paying U.S. Savings Bonds and hold them to maturity or beyond.

TENNIS ANYONE?

By KEN GREEN

Washington's Birthday has come and gone and with it one of the most exciting and successful tennis tournaments held on the Peninsula. The 32-man invitational round robin pitted the best that Monterey and Salinas have to offer and believe me the caliber of tennis has improved in these areas. The only criticism heard among the players was there were just too many matches to play in three days, the feeling being that the tournament should encompass two weekends. The grueling strain of three and four matches a day didn't seem to bother Meadowbrook Pro Jerry McKuen who dispatched his opponents from the quarter finals on, only losing one set. These are the results:

Following the seven match pro-set round robin the two top players from each group qualified for the two out of three set quarter finals. The qualifiers were: Group A, Jerry McKuen and Valli Moezzi; Group B, Rudy Perez and Ken Green; Group C, Rich Abramson and Pete Steffen; Group D, Ed Gulick and Rich Morriss.

Giving some indication of the toughness of the schedule two players retired in the 3rd set of the quarters and one suffered cramps. The results: Abramson over Gulick 2-6, 6-3, 6-1. Gulick with cramps in the third. Moezzi and Morriss split sets and Morriss retired. McKuen defeated Green 2-6, 6-4, 3-0 retired and Perez crunched Steffen 6-1, 6-1.

Semis: McKuen over Perez 6-2, 7-5; Abramson over Moezzi 6-4, 4-6, 6-1. Finals: McKuen defeated Abramson 6-4, 6-4.

Tremendous improvement was noticed by some of the players who didn't make the quarters. Stan Cummins beat Jerry McKuen 8-5 in the round robin. Beau Connel, Pro at Carmel Valley Inn, was close in every match, showing strength on the ground strokes. Junior Brian Sours gave everyone a tough battle, beating Al Boyles and leading Green 5-2, before losing momentum and match 8-5. Dan Hazelton played great, losing only to Perez and Boyles - the Boyles match was a real upset in the cyclone wind at Santa Catalina. Hazelton was a shoe-in to the quarters until Green upset Perez 5-3 in a tie-breaker. Valli Moezzi, the toughest junior on the local scene, pounded his way into the quarters winning six out of seven matches, losing only to McKuen.

McKuen played outstanding tennis from the quarters on and received $50 for his efforts. Abramson $25 and Perez $15. Everyone had a great time and all are looking forward to the next invitational. Thanks to Bill Sours for allowing us to use his courts for the quarters through the finals and to Stan Cummins, Ed Gulick and Buzz McClay for keeping things humming.

Enhancing our local tennis scene are a group of ageless court veterans; some with impressive tennis credentials, others late starters to the game who have discovered its magnetism and made tennis an integral part of their lifestyle. You can see them almost every day on the various courts of the Peninsula, some dressed in the tennis costumes of a bygone era, others up-to-date, keeping pace with the youngsters. Wherever they play, their presence has a profound affect as an inspiration to the juniors and a challenge to the senior citizen who feels he is too old to scamper about the tennis court. They are as lasting as the game in which they play.

As the juniors hone their game locally, then move on to other courts in the land, these vets remain never changing, always providing the distinguished class and the foundation for the tennis community. Their strokes are not always textbook perfect, some are compromised due to the various affirmities of aging, but they get the job done. You are always aware when you are playing with them that what they may lack in speed and power they make up for in savvy and court strategy.

Clarissa Mitchel - like Jack Benny, Clarissa is really only 39. At any rate she plays like she is 39. Clarissa has won numerous tennis awards over the years including the mixed championship of the Philipines and the Missouri Valley championship. She is a shining example for tennis and finds time to convey her vast knowledge of the game in coaching the Weightman Cup Girls at the Carmel Valley Racquet Club. You may see her darting about the Peninsula in her yellow Volkswagen with the tennis player hood ornament.

Elwood Graham - The fine artist-tennis player. I remember Elwood 15 years ago at the Pebble Beach Club, always the gentleman and a great competitor. Elwood now holds court every Saturday and Sunday morning at the Carmel High School courts with his pals Becker, Facett, the Deil Brothers and another fine senior, Jerry Elwood. I know their secret: they play on the municipal courts because they can take their shirts off. When Walter Becker and Bill Facett take their shirts off, dogs bark, children cry and hundreds of shades are drawn for miles around.

Joe - Just Joe - Everyone knows Joe, this ageless Philipino waiter. Joe has helped more housewives develop their game than any pro on the Peninsula. Joe may be found at the Pacific Grove Municipal Courts or anywhere he can find a good game. If you're looking for the epitome of steadiness, look for Joe. You won't find a nicer guy.

I will continue on the seniors next week.

Tennis Sidelight: I have seen many tennis pros come and go in the past twenty years on the Peninsula. A professional job is at best never secure. A club position just over the hill may look better and they move on. Don Hamilton, journeyman professional and a friend of scores of tennis buffs is moving on. He has brought a special distinction to this area with his warmth towards all tennis hopefuls, capable or not, and his uncanny talent for putting together any big event with taste and superb wit. Perhaps he was too capable, too tuned in for his surroundings and his image became a burden to those who really don't understand what's happening in the tennis world. At any rate, the axe has fallen on a good man and friend.

Alliance Francais to host Mardi Gras Ball

The Alliance Francais has announced plans for its annual Mardi Gras Gala dinner and costume ball, as a benefit for its 1974 scholarship fund. The festive affair will be given on Friday, March 1, at the Carmel Valley Golf & Country Club.

Members of the Carmel Valley Golf and Country Club and their guests are invited to attend, together with members of Alliance Francais and their guests. The theme for the dinner-dance will be the "French Follies" with complete freedom of choice in selecting costumes, although costumes are not required. The menu will feature breast of chicken with champagne sauce and mushrooms. A combo will play for dancing.

For information and reservations, call Mrs. Phyllis Jervey at 624-2003 or Mrs. Jacques Ilbek at 372-2033 or Mrs. John Dowdakin at 659-2356. They are co-chairmen, and Mrs. Edward Hogan is general chairman. Master of ceremonies will be Joseph Danysh. Dr. Danielle Cooper of Pacific Grove is the president of Alliance Francais. Mardi Gras costume judges are to be: honorary president, Mrs. Jehanne Salinger Carlson, John Lohman and Samuel Knoll.

Registration opens for new workshops at MPC

Wilderness backpacking, silk screen printing, chess and cake decorating are four new workshops in the offing for March at Monterey Peninsula College.

According to Mrs. Corky Matthews, instructor and backpacker herself, "Wilderness Backpacking" is a seven-part workshop for those who appreciate our wilderness heritage and want to know more about traveling independently in wild country with maximum awareness, comfort, and safety, and with minimum impact on its fragile natural system.

The class begins Tuesday, March 12, and registration is $12 per person. The final meeting includes a two-day overnight field trip.

Screen-making, stretching silk and preparation for printing are included in the eight-week course, "Introduction to Silk Screen Printing." Barbara Williams, workshop leader, will include instruction in the tushe and glue, stencil, lacquer cutting, and glue block-out methods. The overlaying of colors and actual printing of three or four of these methods will also be made.

The class will meet each Saturday, beginning March 2. Registration is $12 and must be completed before the first class meeting.

U.S. Chess Federation Regional Director Ted Yudacufski will instruct both beginning and intermediate players in a "Chess Workshop." According to Yudacufski, the skills to play a reasonably sophisticated game of chess will be developed through lectures and practice sessions, with emphasis on the principles, techniques and technology of the game.

The beginning class will meet March 4 and the intermediate class March 7. The enrollment fee is $8.

Instructor Florence Toward will teach a workshop in "Beginning Cake Decorating" which includes the proper use of cake coloring, the creation of decorative flowers, methods of flooding, sugar molding and figure piping. Also included will be the proper preparation of a cake to prepare level decorating foundations.

The six-week workshop begins March 4 and registration is $25.

For further information on these workshops and registration, contact MPC Community Services Office at 373-5522.

Sponsors sought for youth programs

Guarantors (Sponsors) are being sought by the Monterey Park and Recreation Department and the Monterey Youth Center to provide funds for the proposed summer music film and drama programs. Merchants, churches, organizations and individuals will be called upon by staff members to act as sponsors and quarantors for this youth-oriented program. The funds provided by the sponsors will be placed in a special program account to be drawn upon as needed through the summer.

Small fees are being charged for most of the program's events, and at the end of summer a percentage of the fees will be returned to the guarantor.

Plans are now finalized for five sections of the program, plus a dramatic workshop later in the summer. The plans include: (ten weeks of instruction in a folk guitar and singing workshop twice each week taught by folk singer, David Baumgarten; four outdoor children's concerts; three outdoor Sunday concerts for the general public; ten "Hootnanny" style sing and rap sessions appropriately named: "Age of Man Coffee House" under the direction of Mr. Baumgarten; a film series of John Steinbeck's films to be shown on Cannery Row (evenings).

Seven of John Steinbeck's greatest stories will be shown, including The Grapes of Wrath, Of Mice and Men, East of Eden, Viva Zapata, The Pearl, The Red Pony and Tortilla Flat.

Guarantors are stablished at $100 or $200 and "no return." Sponsorships will range from $50 to $200. Sponsors and quarantors will be identified with each of the five sections of the summer youth program, and will be listed as sponsors in advertising and promotional releases. The Youth Center requires roughly $3,000 to carry out the program.

For more information about sponsorships, grants or the programs offered, contact the Monterey Park and Recreation Department, Peter J. Aldrete or Peter Bruno, 372-8121, ext. 281.

Ernest A. Kufis leaves Tularcitos

BY LUCY SMITHSON

Ernest A. Kufis gave himself a sixty-seventh birthday present last week. He retired!

The popular custodian has been a mainstay of Tularcitos School for many years.He has seen the school adapt from self-contained classrooms under Principal Bill Mallek to team-teaching under "Gus" Gustafson and back to self-contained classrooms under Principal Tom Williams. The job of moving all the furniture, hanging the blackboards, and seeing that these changes were smoothly accomplished fell to Mr. Kufis.

It's a good thing that "Ernie" was an all-around athlete in high school--he hasn't slowed down since! Graduating from Fresno State College in 1932 with a B.A. in history and political science, he was a Prudential insurance agent for twelve years. Then for fourteen years he operated a restaurant in Fresno. Since his move to Carmel eleven years ago, he has worked for the Carmel Unified School District.

Mr. Kufis has always liked children and the feeling has been mutual. In fact, the team of boys that works in the Tularcitos lunchroom at noontime wrote him a nice letter on the occasion of his retirement. They promised to try to do the things he told them were right. Many of the classes drew pictures and wrote notes, expressing in effect, "We love you, Mr. Kufis."

There were cakes and coffee in the teachers' lounge on February 1, the last working day for Ernie. He had asked that a party not be given for him at school. He said he was afraid he'd have to clean up after it.

Obituary

Clifford Blanchard

Clifford Blanchard died last Sunday at the age of 82 at the Carmel Valley Manor where he had been a resident for 10 years. He had suffered from ill health for several years.

Born in Monsey, N.Y. Mr. Blanchard taught industrial art in New York City schools until his retirement in 1955. He also served in the Navy during World War I.

Mr. Blanchard is survived by his wife, Clara, of Carmel; his stepson, Arthur Stueck of Hampton Bays, N.Y.; his sister, Edna Nidd of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and many grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Private services were held for Mr. Blanchard at Little Chapel-by-the-Sea.

Helen Hayes film at Tantamount

The Tantamount Theatre brings an early Helen Hayes film, "What Every Woman Knows" (1934), to its screen this weekend.

Based on the comedy by Sir James Barrie, creator of Peter Pan, the accent--Scottish--is on charm as personified by Helen Hayes in the role of Maggie, who knows "What Every Woman Knows"--that a wife can take the credit for her husband's success.

Co-starring is Brian Aherne, a star in his own right after this film. A fine supporting cast includes Madge Evans, Lucile Watson, Dudley Digges, and Donald Crisp.

Show time, Friday and Saturday nights, is 8:40.

Peninsula Council on Alcoholism to host annual dinner

"Alcohol, the Fighting Man's Drug," is the theme of the annual dinner meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Council on Alcoholism, to be held Tuesday, Feb. 26, at the Fort Ord Officers' Club. The social hour will begin at 6:30, dinner at 7:30 and the program at 8:30. The public is invited to the entire evening.

Major General Robert G. Gard, Jr. commander of Fort Ord, will the keynote speaker. Gard graduated from West Point in 1950 and received his master's degree and Ph. D. from Harvard. He served combat duty in both Korea and Viet Nam and served in peacetime in Europe.

In the United States, Gard has been on the West Point faculty, was an Army Fellow with the New York City Council on Foreign Relations and held several positions in the Office of the Secretary of Defense as well as in the Department of the Army in Washington D.C.

Prior to his present command, he was Director of Discipline and Drug Policies with the Army Department's Personnel Office. His article, "The 'Other War' on Drugs," was published in Army.

ASK JEANELLE

Q. I signed a contract to buy a lot & gave $200 down. Seller now says my credit isn't clear; one bad debt must be paid before they'll close escrow. Meantime I've decided I don't want the lot and need my money back. How?

A. This is a legal question. Take copies of everything you signed to your attorney....Although we are well trained in real estate and tax law, we can't give legal advice. We are specialists in real estate, & your attorney is a specialist in law and best qualified to help you. Next time you decide to buy property, select a good realtor who can protect you from these types of legal problems BEFORE they occur. Call
